Canada - How Canada barred adoptions from Muslim countries and used Shariah law to do it

October 29, 2018 - At the Pakistani orphanage where he was abandoned at birth, little Imran packed his things and said goodbye to the children who weren't so lucky. At four years old, Imran believed he would finally have a family. "Say goodbye to me," he said. "My mom is coming to take me to Canada." That was two years ago. He never made it — all because of a controversial policy that's kept hopeful Canadians separated from children they had created a space for in their hearts and their homes. But after a year-long investigation by The Fifth Estate, that may change. The federal government says it will review a decision going back to 2013 when Canada banned adoptions from Pakistan without warning.

European Union - Combating child poverty: an issue of fundamental rights

October 2018 - Almost 25 million children under 18 are at risk of poverty or social exclusion in the EU. Poverty deprives children of educational opportunities, childcare, access to health care, adequate food and housing, family support and even protection from violence. This report outlines data and survey findings that highlight the magnitude of child poverty in the EU, but also presents tools available to counter this phenomenon and keep track of progress made.

United States - USA: Facts and figures on illegal pushbacks, arbitrary detention and ill treatment of asylum-seekers in the United States

October 22, 2018 - Amnesty International's view on US authorities' family separation numbers: There has still not been a proper reckoning of the scale of abuse by US authorities in the family separations scandal. The US Congress must act immediately to publicly investigate and establish an exhaustive record of family separations by US authorities, and pass legislation prohibiting the separation and indefinite detention of children and families. US authorities must reveal their full statistics on family separations for public scrutiny, ensure that all those families are reunited, and guarantee this never happens again.

Colloque étudiant – CERIU: “Efficaces, les organisations internationales ? »

Le CERIU organise cette année la 6e édition de son colloque étudiant intitulé : « Efficaces, les organisations internationales ? ». Pour cette nouvelle édition, le comité organisateur du colloque étudiant du cérium a décidé de mener des débats et des discussions sur l'efficacité des organisations internationales. Souvent critiquées, voire remises en cause, les organisations internationales font l'objet de questionnements quant à leur place dans un monde bousculé par plusieurs enjeux fondamentaux. Ainsi, nous élaborons trois thèmes qui nous semblent prioritaires dans leurs agendas. À 9h45, nos intervenant.e.s débattront sur la priorité du développement durable jusqu'à 11h30 sous forme de table ronde. À partir de 13h jusqu'à 15h, la question des femmes dans les organisations internationales sera discutée et débattue sous forme de table ronde. Enfin, de 15h à 17h, nous conclurons par une discussion autour de la place de la gouvernance mondiale et la légitimité des organisations internationales.

Lecture - Human Rights Limits to Privatization - Humphrey lecture with Philip

Alston

Privatization is generally presented as a technical solution for managing resources and reducing fiscal deficits, but in fact, it is an integral part of an economic and social philosophy of governance. Key international actors such as the World Bank and the IMF now promote it aggressively without regard to its human rights implications or consequences, while most human rights bodies have either ignored the phenomenon or assumed that tweaking existing procedures provides an adequate response. The lecture will explore the ways in which human rights proponents need to fundamentally reconsider their approach to this issue

Egypt -Egypt broadens potential pool of adoptive, foster parents.

October 12, 2018 - Egypt has amended its Child Law, opening up the option of adoption and foster parenting to more people — including single women. The amendments, passed Sept. 19, concern orphans and children of unknown parentage under Egypt's Alternative Family system. According to observers, the government is making the changes to confront the country's history of mistreatment and abuse of these children. The problem has been compounded in recent years by the financial strain shouldered by care facilities in light of the dire economic conditions gripping the country.

Syria - Syrian refugees and the schooling challenge.

October 23, 2018- In 2017, the U.N. refugee agency, UNHCR, estimated that globally 68.5 million people had been forcefully displaced—the worst such crisis since World War II. Of these, 40 million were internally displaced peoples (IDPs), 25.4 million were refugees, and 3.1 million were asylum seekers. Over half were minors and over half of those minors were out of school. In 2017, 61 percent of refugee children were in primary school, compared to 92 percent globally and 23 percent were in secondary school compared to 84 percent globally. Two-thirds of refugee children in primary school don't go on to secondary education and only 1 percent go on to higher education.
